A SLEEPING BEAUTY.

Remarkable Lethargy of a Young Woman in Illinois Who Is Nearly Dead.

One of the strangest and most interesting cases to the medical profession as well as to the people is that of Miss Grace Gridley, a pretty young lady of Amboy, Ills. Her singular case has called the attention of the medical profession far and wide, and they have thus far been unable to solve the mystery. Your correspondent called at the home of the parents at Amboy, and was met at the door by Mrs. Gridley, a motherly woman, who, when told of the errand, said:

"It is very embarrassing for us, and we have felt delicate in saying anything to strangers about our dear Grace. There is hardly a mail that does not bring letters of advice and inquiries from doctors and strangers from all over the country. We have asked the local papers to respect us in our sad bereavement and say nothing about the matter, and they have respected our request, but, as you say, there have been reports in other papers, and I don't know but that it would be best to have something like the facts appear, though my husband or myself do not like the attention of our friends called to our sad trial.

"Grace had a severe case of la grippe along in February, from which we supposed she had fully recovered, but in March she had a relapse which left her languid. She was always a bright, active child of a nervous temperament. She is now over 22 years of age. We first noticed that, contrary to her usual custom, she wanted to lie in bed in the morning, which gradually grew upon her until on the 1st of April we were unable to arouse her.

"Medical assistance was called in, and not until a strong current of electricity had been applied did she awake. She remained awake for two days, and on the third we again had to resort to electricity. She awoke with a scream, and said: 'Don't do that; it hurts me so! Mamma, I don't want to wake; I am so comfortable. I understand and know everything that is going on around me,' and she sank back in that dreadful lethargy you find her in today.

"Yes, she got out of bed once. It was several days after the second application of the battery, and we found her in the front parlor—her room is upstairs—by the window with an open Bible on her lap. She turned the leaves restlessly, but did not seem to read. I am sure she did not know what she was doing, and she did not seem to recognize me when I led her back to her room. She seems conscious at times, and to this day seems to notice the presence of a stranger in the room, as the presence of any but the family seems to distress her.

When asked if it had not been reported that the strange illness had been brought on by religious excitement at a revival, Mrs. Gridley said: "There has been such a report, but there is no truth in it, though Grace is an ardent Christian and a member of the church. She has not attended any revivals for a year, and was never unduly excited over religion."

Miss Gridley is slowly wasting away, though she is given liquid food about every three hours, and swallows naturally. At times she seems to be awake, opening her eyes about a quarter of the way. She turns herself in the bed and seems to have control of her limbs.

"When she had opened her eyes," said Mrs. Gridley, "we have earnestly asked, even implored, Grace to make some sign, a movement of hand or eye, or to do something to show that she recognizes us, but she makes no sign. We can't understand it."—Cor. St. Louis Republic.

How Mrs. Barr Came to Write.

Mrs. Amelia E. Barr, who now divides her talents between The New York Ledger and The Century, is said to make more money than does the chief justice of the United States. She is the daughter of a Church of England clergyman, and grew up and married across the sea. Upon first coming to America the family settled in Texas. There yellow fever carried off the husband and sons. Mrs. Barr came north and got a place as teacher. One day at a dinner party a man beside her said, "If you could write as you talk you might make a living by it." The result was a short story in The Christian Union. The Texas experience furnished the local color for "Remember the Alamo," which, however, is far from being Mrs. Barr's best book. Indeed the story is so burdened with history that it drags throughout, and in spots is distinctly tiresome. However, it sells, and the juggling of the guinea helps all but that art may feel.—New York Letter.

At a recent wedding in New York the bride, who prides herself on her social position, appeared with her pet dog, a white satin bow on his neck, and a bunch of fresh orange flowers twisted in his forelock.

INVESTIGATING THE SILVER POOL.

It was charged at the time of the passage of the Sherman Silver bill last summer that several members of Congress, who voted for the bill, were speculating in silver bullion and realized handsomely on their investment when silver advanced to $1 20 per ounce. The press and the public generally commented severely on the course of the speculative Congressmen and finally Representative Dockery introduced a resolution to investigate the subject. The resolution was referred to a committee, which for private or other reasons, made no investigation or at least made no report to the House. Last Monday the question was again brought before the House, and after general debate a resolution was adopted providing for a special committee of five members to investigate the alleged connection of Congressmen in the silver pool and to inquire into the ownership of the 12,000,000 ounces of silver which the new financial bill requires the Government to purchase.

It is to be hoped for the honor of the country that Congressmen have not been using their official position and opposing the free coinage of silver for the purpose of enriching themselves at the expense of the public, but there is reason for believing that a thorough and impartial investigation will dissipate such hopes. That there is a pool, which advances the price of silver every month when the Government is purchasing the 4,500,000 ounces required by law, and depresses the market when the monthly Government purchases are made, there is no doubt whatever, but it was supposed that this pool was composed of Wall Street brokers and not of members of Congress. The investigation, if thorough, will determine who the speculators are, but it is possible that the committee appointed to make it may be mainly composed of members who are in the pool. If men like Bland, of Missouri, and Williams, of Illinois, who are first, last and all the time for free coinage, are on the committee, and not overruled by anti-silver men, the truth may be arrived at and the Congressional speculators, if there be any, exposed.

It will be observed that the price which the Treasury Department pays for silver bullion is higher than the open market quotations at the time of the purchase, and the ordinary silver miner, who has to dispose of his silver in small quantities, must invariably sell it at the open market price. If the Stewart free coinage amendment to the Senate financial bill does not become a law, Congress should compel the Treasury Department to make regulations by which small producers of bullion could sell direct to the Government without the intervention of middle men or brokers.

INDIANS INFATUATED.

A communication from Captain C. C. Warner, of the Nevada Agency, relating to the Indians under his jurisdiction, appears in the Journal to-day. The dispatch from Carson which stated that the Indians had left Genoa and were congregating at Pine Nut, came through the Associated Press and was published in the coast papers generally, as was also the dispatch which stated that two hundred Shoshones were holding a ghost dance in Star Valley at the head of the Humboldt river.

Captain Warner says the Piutes, or "Pah-Utes" as they are officially called, under his jurisdiction are peaceable, but as the Captain, who is an old Nevanadan, and a quarter of a century ago had several engagements with the Indians, very well knows there are thousands of Indians in Nevada who are not on reservations and receive no annuities from the Government. Many of these are beyond doubt affected with the "Messiah craze," and liable at any moment to commit depredations which would precipitate a conflict with the whites.

It should be borne in mind that white people at times become unbalanced under so called religious excitement. Last Spring hundreds of people in the enlightened city of Oakland, California, became alarmed at the diabolical forebodings of religious fanatics and left the city, believing it was doomed to destruction. When white people, in a civilized community, have their heads turned by the harangues of fanatics, Indians, ignorant and untutored, cannot be expected to maintain their mental balance, when one of their head men claims to hold direct communication with the Great Spirit and tells them a Messiah is coming who will restore to life all the Indians who have died for generations and annihilate the pale faces.

A fair-minded member of the Kansas Legislature, being asked his opinion of the McKinley bill replied: "I have not given the matter so much thought as it should have, and will do nothing rash, but when the bill comes up I will investigate it thoroughly, and if I find it is right my vote will be recorded for it."

Algernon Bortoris, Nellie Grant's husband, is dying of delirium tremens in the south of France. His wife, once the pet of the White House, procured a divorce from him some time ago.

Iowa is shipping poultry by the carload to Seattle and Tacoma, the great cities of Washington, yet grain commands a better price in Iowa than in the State of Washington.

INTENSELY COLD IN EUROPE.

The weather on the eastern side of the Atlantic is the most severe experienced in three quarters of a century. The Thames is frozen near Richmond and navigation impeded; the coasts of Belgium, Holland and North Germany are blocked with ice and at the Hebrides Sunday spirit thermometers indicated a temperature 50 degrees below zero—nearly as cold as that recorded by Dr. Kane's expedition in the Arctic regions. The bay at Copenhagen is frozen and dynamite is used to break up the ice. Bavaria, Austria and Northern Italy are covered with snow and in localities along the Rhine there are deep snow drifts. The Seloe in France is frozen at Lyons; there have been heavy snow falls in Spain and a violent hail and snow storm extended south from the Mediterranean into Africa.

There is intense suffering among the poor in England and on the continent, and many persons have been frozen to death.

Peace at Pine Ridge.

Special to the Journal.

PINE RIDGE AGENCY, January 13.—Contrary to expectation there was no conference between the chief of the hostiles and General Miles. The latter says the Indians are still timid and apprehensive of punishment and he proposed to allow a couple of days to elapse before attempting to bring negotiations to a close. Thus the disposition he has shown to treat the Indians kindly has made for him many warm friends among them. This fact, coupled with the pains which Captain Pierce, the new Agent, is taking to show the Indians that everything they are entitled to under the treaty will be issued to them, will, undoubtedly, have a beneficial effect, although until the trouble is really over, there is ever present the fear that injudicious action on the part of some one may precipitate bloodshed.

Stanford Elected Senator.

Special to the Journal.

SACRAMENTO, January 13.—At 12 o'clock the Senate took up the election of United States Senator. Day, of Sacramento, placed Leland Stanford in nomination and made an eloquent address. Bailey, of Santa Clara, seconded the nomination. Goucher followed by nominating Stephen White, of Los Angeles. The vote gave Stanford 27 and White 12. The two Houses meet to-morrow at 12 o'clock in joint session for the purpose of declaring the election of a Senator. Adjourned till 2 o'clock.

At 12 o'clock Lowe introduced a resolution in the Assembly to have a vote taken for United States Senator. Brunner placed Stanford in nomination and Murphy seconded the nomination. Shanahan, of Shasta, placed White in nomination and Gould, of Merced, seconded it. The vote resulted: Stanford, 53; White, 18; Ben Morgan, 1. Kellogg, of Humboldt, is an American party man, and cast his vote for Morgan. Ames and Alexander were absent, but a telegram was received from Ames to cast his ballot for Stanford. The Speaker then announced Stanford as the choice of the House.

House Proceedings.

Special to the Journal.

WASHINGTON, January 13.—The House disagreed to the Senate amendments to the bill to provide additional justice for the Arizona Supreme Court.

The House then went into Committee of the Whole on the Army Appropriation bill. Bland's amendment providing that no salary be paid by the United States to military officers detailed to military colleges or State institutions was defeated by a vote of 85 to 12.

An amendment by Williams, of Ohio, to prohibit the drawing of pay by officers on the retired list while in receipt of any other salary from the Government was adopted, and without completing the reading of the bill the committee rose and the House adjourned.

Who They Were.

Special to the Journal.

BAKERSFIELD, January 13.—It has been discovered that the man who shot and killed a woman at the hotel here Sunday and then attempted to commit suicide, came here from San Diego, and that he was formerly a corporal in the regular army. The man's name is not known, but the belief is expressed that the woman was the divorced wife of Clendenning, who shot a Judge of the Superior Court at San Diego a year or two ago. A paper has been found on the man showing that he had sent money from San Diego to the woman at San Pedro.

A Double Murder.

Special to the Journal.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., January 13.—Meagre details of a double murder come from Tuscumbia. Mrs. Freeman quarreled with one, Falkerson, and fired a charge of shot into his breast. Falkerson snatched the gun from the woman and before he expired mortally wounded her.

Senator Hearst's Condition.

WASHINGTON, January 13.—A consultation of Senator Hearst's physicians, it is said, reached the decision that the Senator is suffering with cancer of the colon or large intestine and that there is absolutely no hope for his recovery. He may die in a few days or may linger for months.

Senate Proceedings.

Special to the Journal.

WASHINGTON, January 13.—At the conclusion of the routine morning business the Senate resumed consideration of the financial bill, with Senator Sherman on the floor.

The Stewart amendment, Sherman said, was a radical proposition which changed the whole character of the bill. It was a proposition that the United States should pay $1 29 for every ounce of silver bullion that might be offered from any part of the world, not only this, but it had no option as a mode of payment. The option was in the hands of the owner. This proposed measure gave a preference to silver over gold, not only this but it was not open to further amendment. If he believed the free coinage of silver would enable us to maintain the value of silver bullion up to that of gold, he would vote for free coinage to-day. The effect of free coinage would be to increase the exportation of gold. While the currency would be expanded by the issue of Treasury notes it would be contracted by the exportation of gold. Another effect would be to increase the importation of silver, when the market for silver was in the most disturbed state possible. He believed the best money ever devised by man was Treasury notes of the United States issued under the law of the last session—gold certificates and silver certificates. Common people believed in hard money. They were willing to have paper money but they wanted it maintained at par.

After speaking four hours, Sherman resumed his seat amid applause.

Allison said it was true the people of the United States did not favor the use of metal as money in ordinary transactions, whether of silver or of gold, but preferred paper substitutes. The last session of the bill authorized the President, when a sufficient number of commercial nations had agreed upon a common ratio, to open our mints to free coinage. That was a statement to the nations of the world that the United States was ready when they were to use silver as money. He did not believe the United States could maintain free coinage alone.

Aldrich and Evans also spoke against the amendment.

McConnell argued in favor of free coinage.

The hour then being late, it was decided that James of Nevada, Ingalls, Gibson and Hancock be allowed to address the Senate in extension to-morrow, after which a ten minute debate be entered upon. Adjourned.

The Committee on Pacific Railroads.

Special to the Journal.

WASHINGTON, January 13.—Senator Frye's Committee on Pacific Railroads was called together to-day in order to hear further arguments upon the bill already reported from the Committee to secure the payment of the Government indebtedness of the Union and Central Pacific Railroad Companies.

The Union Pacific Railroad Company was represented by Jeremiah Wilson, who said the company would accept the proposition to refund its debt at 2 1/2 per cent. interest, payment to be based upon a term of 100 years instead of the per cent. and fifty years, as proposed in the bill.

The Central Pacific Railroad Company was represented by President Huntington. He said inasmuch as the Central Pacific earnings and prospects were below those of the Union Pacific, if better terms were granted that would the Central Pacific debt, (fixed in bill for 100 years and 2 per cent. interest), should be favored in a corresponding degree by a further reduction of interest and extension of time. If this was done he would be willing to apply a part of the earnings of the Southern Pacific Railroad toward the payment of the debt of the Central Pacific.

The Reapportionment Bill.

Special to the Journal.

WASHINGTON, January 13.—The report on the House Apportionment bill was presented to the Senate to-day. Davis, Berry and Blodgett unite in a minority report that Arkansas, Minnesota, Missouri and New York ought to have each one more Representative than is provided by the bill.

Governor Thayer of Nebraska Refuses to Step Down.

Special to the Journal.

LINCOLN, January 13.—The Supreme Court allowed ex-Governor Thayer to file a quo warranto petition this morning, citing Governor Boyd to show cause why he should not vacate his office. "However," the Court said, "we recognize Boyd as the legal Governor of Nebraska, and all in the State Department do likewise. We would advise the ex-Governor to quietly and peaceably submit to the Governor, as it will do him no good to further resist." In spite of this, Thayer refuses to vacate his office. The Board of Public Lands and Buildings say they will remove Thayer from the Governor's room this afternoon by force, if necessary.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is a peculiar medicine, possessing, by virtue of its peculiar combination, proportion, and preparation, curative power superior to any other article. To Get

"In one store where I went to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla the clerk tried to induce me to buy their own instead of Hood's; he told me their's would last longer; that I might take it on ten days' trial; that if I did not like it I need not pay anything, etc. But he could not prevail on me to change. I told him I knew what Hood's Sarsaparilla was. I had taken it, was satisfied with it, and did not want any other."

When I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla I was feeling real miserable, suffering a great deal with dyspepsia, and so weak that at times I could hardly stand. I looked, and had for some time, like a person in consumption. Hood's Sarsaparilla did me so much good that I wonder at myself sometimes, and my friends frequently speak of it." Mrs. ELLA A. THE INDIAN SITUATION.

What Agent Warner Says on the Subject

NEVADA AGENCY, January 11.

EDITOR JOURNAL:—In your paper of the 10th inst., I notice two articles relative to the Indians (especially the Pah-Utes) in this State, one a "special" from Carson, the other a communication from Reno signed "Jerusha Juniper." Being in a position to fully understand the "Indian situation," in this section of the State, I deem it my duty, not only to the law-abiding and peaceful Indians under my jurisdiction, but also to the white citizens and settlers, who will, I am sure, feel some uneasiness and apprehension when they read the articles above referred to, to rectify, "in toto" the bold assertions made by your Carson correspondent and to set at ease the anxiety of "Jerusha Juniper," as to the whereabouts of the Pah-Ute Indians.

The "gathering" of the Indians in the vicinity of Pine Nut, alluded to in the dispatch from Carson, was no doubt due to the fact that a delegation of five Indians, one Kiowa, two Arapahoes, and two Bannocks, with all the necessary recommendations from their agents, were on a visit to the Walker River Reserve to investigate the so-called "Messiah," each and every one of whom was intelligent and fully understood the import of their important mission.

These strangers returned to this Agency to-day and reported to me in full their opinion of the Messiah, which I can assure each and every one of your readers was very satisfactory.

They look upon the "Messiah" as a great "humbug" and will so report to their respective agents and tribes upon their return home.

The idea that any Indians near Pine Nut were or are in "war paint" or making any demonstrations of an unfriendly nature is preposterous, and where any rational person could have secured any facts to warrant such a sensational telegram is beyond the comprehension of those who are eminently conversant with the true situation.

In reply to "Jerusha Juniper" it might be well to state that very few Pah-Utes habitually reside in Reno, and most of those who temporarily live in that city reside on this reservation, and of late there has been an unusual large number of the permanent residents of the reservation returned to their homes. It is not unusual for the Indians on the reservation to spend their summers in the adjacent towns, but when the winter sets in they seek a more genial climate and comfortable quarters. I do not think that the scarcity of Indians in the vicinity of Reno would be noticed by any one except some person whose imagination had been stretched beyond the limit of prudence.

All the Indians under my jurisdiction, both on this and Walker River Reserve, have a most decided opinion for peace and good will for the whites, and while they daily hear of all the "silly" rumors of the "Indian dissatisfaction" they remain quietly at home and say nothing.

If by a miracle any trouble should arise, the responsibility wants to be placed not at the doors of the Indians, but of those who originate such uncalled for and absurd reports as the dispatch from Carson and the effusion of Jerusha Juniper.

Respectfully,
O. C. WARNER,
U. S. Indian Agent.

THE WESTERN ADDITION.

Residents of That Section Taking Precautions Against Fire.

It is stated that the residents of the Western Addition are obtaining signatures of property holders to a petition to the Board of County Commissioners praying that 500 feet of hose be furnished them. They purpose furnishing a house and organizing a hose company if fire plugs are put in at convenient places. The great distance from the engine house to the upper part of the Western Addition necessitates immediate action, and the sooner it is done the better, as every possible precaution against fire should be taken.

THE AUCTION.

A Grand Success.

C. W. Booton, of the Opera House Dry Goods Store, has opened out in the building formerly occupied by A. H. Manning, with a general stock of dry goods and clothing, boots, shoes, hats and caps, which he is selling at auction.

The sales will continue until Feb. 1st. All goods are sold without reserve. Mail-order at 1 o'clock; regular performance at 7 p.m. Ladies are especially invited to attend these sales as there are a great many articles that are suitable for ladies to purchase, as the General says he is going to close out his entire stock of dress goods.

District Court.

In the District Court yesterday Judge Obeney presiding, the evidence was concluded in the case of Felton vs. Holt, and counsel for plaintiff allowed five days in which to file brief, and counsel for defendant five days thereafter to answer.

The case of O. J. Backus vs. Smith and Nathan, is the first on the calendar this morning.

Brave Soldiers.

A number of the Tuscarora Guards, doubtless affected by the Indian scare, have sent in their resignations of late, says the Times-Review. They remind one of the Home Guards, described by the late Lieutenant Derby, as being "invincible in peace and invisible in war." Brave boys!

DEATH COMES PAINLESSLY.

A Scientific Opinion That Will Be Consoling to All Humanity.

The signs of impending death are many and variable. No two instances are precisely identical, yet several signs are common to many cases. Shakespeare, who observed everything else, observed and recorded some of the premonitory signs of death also. In the account of the death of Falstaff the sharpness of the nose, the coldness of the feet, gradually extending upward, the picking at the bedclothes, are accurately described.

For some time before death indications of its approach become apparent. Speech grows thick and labored, the hands, if raised, fall instantly, the respiration is difficult, the heart loses its power to propel the blood to the extremities, which consequently become cold; a clammy moisture oozes through the pores of the skin, the voice grows weak and husky or piping, the eyes begin to lose their luster.

In death at old age there is a gradual dulling of all the bodily senses and of many of the mental faculties; memory fails, judgment wavers, imagination goes out like a candle. The muscles and tendons get stiff, the voice breaks, the cords of the tabernacle are loosening. Small noisiness irritate, sight becomes dim, nutrition goes on feebly, digestion is impaired, the secretions are insufficient or vitiated or cease, capillary circulation is clogged. Finally the central organ of the circulation comes to a stop, a full stop, and this stoppage means a dissolution. This is the death of old age, which few attain to.

Many people have an idea that death is necessarily painful, even agonizing; but there is no reason whatever to suppose that death is more painful than birth. It is because in a certain proportion of cases dissolution is accompanied by a visible spasm and distortion of the countenance that the idea exists, but it is nearly as certain as anything can be that these distortions of the facial muscles are not only painless, but take place unconsciously. In many instances, too, a comatose or semi-comatose state supervenes, and it is altogether probable that more or less complete unconsciousness then prevails.

We have, too, abundant evidence of people who have been nearly drowned and resuscitated, and they all agree in the statement that after a few moments of painful struggling, fear and anxiety pass away, and a state of tranquillity succeeds. They see the visions of green fields, and in some cases hear pleasing music, and so far from being miserable, their sensations are delightful. But where attempts at resuscitation are unsuccessful the resuscitated persons almost invariably protest against being brought back to life, and declare that resuscitation is accompanied by physical pain and acute mental misery.

Death is a fact which every man must personally experience, and consequently is of universal interest; and as facts are facts, the wiser course is to look them squarely in the face, for necessity is coal black and death keeps no calendar.—Medical Journal.

She Caught the Car.

She was a very masculine looking young woman, and if she had not worn a Psyche knot and skirts she might have passed for a slim waisted youth, for she wore a man's collar, a man's coat, a man's four-in-hand tie, and displayed on her bust a longitudinal section of a man's plaited shirt. She was waiting for a car in the storm the other evening. She had not an umbrella, and was in the shelter of a doorway. A car dashed by, and she whistled for it to stop. The driver paid no attention to her signal, and she gathered up her skirts, made a dash out into the street, ran sharply for a moment, caught up with the rapidly running car, caught the hand rail, and swung on as nimbly as a college athlete. "What do you mean, sir," she exclaimed to the conductor, "by not stopping when I signaled?" The conductor tried to explain, but she would not listen, and sat down and looked indignant for ten minutes. It takes a manish looking young woman to chase a car through the rain and get aboard without stopping the car.—Boston Advertiser.

Ananias and His Dear Father.

Dan'l was the biggest liar in town and Dan'l always appealed to his father to verify his fearful yarns. Dan'l's father was old, a little deaf, and belonged to the Methodist church. It was not to be supposed that the old gentleman would indorse lies, and thus the neighbors concluded. But here is how Dan'l got around his poor old dad. "Went down ter t' brook yesterday," Dan'l would relate. "Caught ten hundred and four pick'ril, say, didn't I, dad?" And the old man, benightedly listening, would hear "four" and meekly reply, "Yes, Dan'l." Then the able liar would edge around "back to" his father, and with the edge of his hand measure off the length of his arm before the eyes of his astonished guest. "Caught one pick'ril, a whopper, longer'n that, say, warn't he, dad?" The old man would gaze upon the six inches of scrawny wrist and forearm as wily Dan'l whirled and measured for his benefit, and humbly but firmly assert, "Yis, my son; sh'd say as how he was summat longer."—Lewiston Journal.

The World's Paper Mills.

The production of paper in the entire world is estimated to be 8,000,000,000 pounds per year. There are 884 paper mills and 1,106 paper machines in this country. A REMARKABLE BREED OF CATTLE.

White With Black Ears and Hornless.

Wilhelm Rehnstrom tells the Rural New Yorker of a remarkable breed of cattle, common to northern Sweden, which is new to stockmen and farmers in this country. This breed has been bred for more than a thousand years. The animals are polled and black-white except the ears, which are black, in this respect resembling the wild cattle of Chillingham, England. While not large in size, the cows are good milkers, and yield large quantities of excellent butter. If any of our American breeders want to introduce a novelty with a good deal of practical value about it, let them try this Swedish race. Their beautiful color and markings, and the fact of their being hornless, would attract attention at once. Professor Rehnstrom goes so far as to say that this breed excels on the best specimens of our American-bred Shorthorn dairy cows would make the finest possible American dairy cows. Cattle-breeders, however, seem to have had about all the "novelties" they want for a time.

Farnham's patent stove pipe drums are just the thing for this cold weather. They save at least one-fourth of the fuel used, and distribute the heat through the room instead of having it escape through the chimney. They are worth ten times what they cost where fuel is high, and they save the labor of putting wood or coal in the stove where it is cheap. Hume Yerington has the agency for the coast, and Joseph H. Cowan, who stops at the Clarendon, represents him in this section.

Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. $3000 A YEAR! I undertake to briefly teach any fairly intelligent person of either sex, who can read and write, and who, after instruction, will work industriously, how to earn three thousand Dollars a year in their own locality, wherever they live. I will also furnish the situation in which they can do so, as well as the money to get them started. I will give you a card that amount. No money for me unless you do as above. I can teach and quickly learned. I desire but one worker from each district, and I will pay him or her a large salary, and provided with employment a large number, who are making over $10000 a year each. I live in NEW YORK, N.
